

Bubbles and Rosés to Kick Off Pride Month 2022

By Bailey McAlister

This June marks 53 years since the historic Stonewall Riots. This transformative revolution is one of the most well-known events contributing to LGBTQ civil rights, and it sparked the queer pride movement we still celebrate today.

As a proud queer lady, I celebrate pride month by reflecting on the joy in our community and showing gratitude for those who have asserted power, inspired resistance, and paved the way for a harmonious future. I've gotten to meet many new queer individuals in wine this year already, and I've tasted lots of different styles made by queer winemakers.

Gentleman Farmer Wines

Gentleman Farmer Wines promotes a serene lifestyle dedicated to working with agriculture and nourishing relationships through food and wine. Their wines, ranging from deeply complex red blends to French-oak Chardonnay, reflect this aspirational lifestyle and influence drinkers to savor the pairing experience.

This year, Gentleman Farmer has a 2021 bright pink rosé bursting with bold Napa Valley flavor. It's got toasty aromas, a hint of earthiness and a fusion of ripe fruit flavors from watermelon to peach to strawberry.
